Subject: End-of-life notification 7600

Dear Valued Customer:

Effective dating back to January 1, 2012, Lake Shore Electric obsoleted the 7600 Micrologic Controller from the transfer switch product line. Due to low volume sales and shortages within the microchip manufacturers, manufacturing is no longer justified, and aftermarket support of the 7600 Micrologic Controllers is being discontinued immediately.

Customers with active warranties for the 7600 Micrologic Controller will continue to receive service and support from Lake Shore Electric through the validity of the warranty agreement.

We apologize for any inconvenience this product end-of-life may cause you. With our broad product offering and support, we are confident we can solve your current and future application needs.

Kind Regards,

Andrew Vrotsos
